WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 13.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.—To-morrow is the day sacred to St. Valentine, a holy priest of Rome, who, with St. Marcellus, was involved in the persecution under Claudius II. He was arrested by that Emperor and sent to the Prefect of Rome, who, on finding all his efforts to make him renounce his faith ineffectual, caused him to be beaten with clubs and afterwards beheaded. This unfortunate shortening of his stature, by a head, occurred on the 14th and hence the origin of the festival of St. Valentine. But what connection this holy man can ever have had with love making has never been satisfactorily settled. There are many conjectures, but the most plausible is to be found in the ornithological workings of nature. About this time, the Ice King begins to give way to the balmy breathing of gentle Spring, early vegetation commences, and the birds, after a long semi-torpid holiday begin to mate, and commence housekeeping for the season. The practical joking which prevails so universally on or about the middle of this month, the love of fun and caricature with Cupid, is of comparatively modern date. Formerly, love-making among our sober progenitors were a much more grave and demure aspect; it was not a matter to be trifled with, that of linking hearts and hands, with the joint fortunes and misfortunes of life. —Exchange paper.

CITY COUNCIL.—There was a regular meeting of the City Council held last night, at which a large amount of business was transacted. In the Board of Aldermen, the salary bill was passed, but the Common Council laid the bill over until the next regular meeting. A resolution requesting the Legislature to grant authority to the Corporation to issue new bonds, in place of those now out, was adopted by both boards. A resolution directing the night watch to call the hours of the night was passed. The thanks of the City Council were tendered to the Board of Guardians of the Alexandria Washington Free School, for the manner in which they have managed the school during the past year. The resolution, passed by the Council of 1864, allowing the Mayor a commission of 2½ per cent. on licenses granted by him, was repealed by the Board of Aldermen, but lies over. Commissioners for holding the approaching municipal election were appointed. An appropriation of $100 for repairs to the steeple of the Friendship Engine House, was passed. A resolution suspending the collection of taxes on certain property occupied during the war by Federal authority, and for which no rent was received, was passed. A large number of private claims, petitions, &c., were acted upon, and the Council did not adjourn until a late hour.

THE LONG BRIDGE.—In the Washington Board of Aldermen, on Monday night last, the following resolution was offered and unanimously adopted:

Be it resolved, &c., That a special committee of three members from each Board be appointed to act in conjunction with the Mayor, in endeavoring to secure co-operative action from Congress with this Corporation in carrying out a comprehensive scheme of improvement of the river channel, and also in the reconstruction of the Long Bridge on a more permanent and satisfactory plan than that of the present structure.

THE ALEXANDRIA RAILROAD.—The lessees of the Washington and Georgetown railroad company, on Monday, set a number of men at work repairing that portion of the track between the southern end of the bridge and Roach's Spring, recently damaged by the movement of the ice. They are also engaged in replacing the last span of the Railroad bridge, and expect to have the road ready for the passage of trains in ten days or less, as we learn from the Washington Star.

RAILROAD SUIT.—We are informed that in the case of the Washington, Alexandria and Georgetown Railroad Company, vs. Stevens and Phelps, Lessees, Judge Meredith, of Richmond, has granted a supercedas. This, it is understood, leaves the Lessees in possession of that part of the road, which lies in Virginia, and supercedes the decree of Judge Thomas. The Lessees are required to give bond in the sum of $50,000 which, it is stated, they are prepared to furnish immediately.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT.—There was considerable disturbance created last night, in the extreme upper portion of the Third Ward, by a mixed fight, which commenced in the house of Miss Fanny Sellicks, and several men were seriously cut and otherwise injured.

DONATIONS TO THE SOUP HOUSE.—Since our last report, the City Council has appropriated fifty dollars to procure supplies for the Soup House. Col. Lee has given three hundred pounds of beef; and Mr. George Bossart, one barrel of turnips, and one barrel of parsnips.

THE RIVER.—The combined action of the tide and moderate weather, is gradually breaking up the ice in the river. The steamer Winisimmet forced her way through the ice this evening, and arrived here from Washington.

A FAIRFAX MAGISTRATE COMMISSIONED.—On Monday last William L. Lee, was commissioned justice of the peace in District No. 2, of Fairfax county, in place of William H. Ferguson, deceased.

DEATH OF J. N.—We learn from our exchanges that the erratic character who figured about here last Summer, under the sobriquet of J. N., has departed this life.

THE ALARM OF FIRE last evening, was caused by the burning of a hay stack belonging to Mrs. Elliott, in one of the lots attached to Yeates' Garden.

HOTEL ARRIVALS.—There were about thirty arrivals at the Mansion House yesterday.

FROST.—Another very heavy frost, last night.

POLICE REPORT—MAYOR'S OFFICE.—There were no cases worth reporting at the Mayor's Office this morning.

MAGISTRATES' OFFICE.—Mary V. Patterson, arrested on complaint of Peter Klein, from whom she had stolen a coat and other articles of clothing, was discharged upon giving up the stolen property, and paying costs.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

The Roanoke Times gives the particulars of a very singular and dreadful casualty that happened in Salem last Saturday afternoon. Miss Letitia Smithy, went out to visit a school acquaintance who lived upon High street. Owing to the late thaw, the side-walk had lost its bottom, and as she was crossing from the jail corner to Mr. Palmer's gate, the pavement gave way, and with heart-rending screams, the young lady rapidly sank from view. Superhuman efforts were made by the citizens to rescue her, but before she could be extricated, she had been crushed to death.

In Richmond, on Saturday, the proprietors and guests of Partington's saloon, on Broad street, were startled by a tremendous noise. A search revealed that a rat in attempting to steal one of a lot of oysters had his tail caught by another oyster. His ratship ran all over the house endeavoring to get rid of his unusual appendage, which refused to let go. The rat, worn down by his exertions, became an easy conquest and was killed.

A young clerk named, Vernon A. Bouis, who has heretofore enjoyed a high reputation for probity, was arrested in Richmond, Friday, on the charge of forging the endorsement of Mr. Jas. F. Powell, on a note of Bouis for $150, payable to Mr. Powell. The forgery was discovered after the note had gone in bank, and had been discounted.

A number of robberies have lately been committed in Petersburg, and four thieves arrested concerned in these robberies. Mrs. Patterson last week had a trunk stolen containing a quantity of valuable jewelry, and some money. None of these have been recovered.

Mrs. Simpson, an estimable lady, aged 72, long engaged in teaching school, died in Petersburg last week. Mr. John Stephenson an old and respectable citizen of Charlottesville, Jefferson county, died on Friday last.

There are "said to be" 209 barber shops in the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth.

To the Editor of the Alexandria Gazette:

Permit us through the columns of your time-honored paper, to bring before the people of Virginia for the office of Governor of the State, a name, which I am sure, will command the respect and support of a vast majority of your readers, on account of the moderation, the conservatism, the services, and the ability connected with it. I allude to HENRY W. THOMAS, of Fairfax.

Judge Thomas has been for the last quarter of a century, prominent before the people of Va., as a member of both Houses of the Legislature, as Auditor of the State, as Judge of the Court of Conciliation, and now as Judge of your Circuit. In each of these positions, and at the Bar, he has been most favorably known, and distinguished for his ability, his fidelity, his freedom from prejudice, and above all for his remarkable good sense, and freedom from all rancor and bitterness of every sort. In private life, he is without reproach.

Eminently conservative, and opposed to the dogmas of secession, he yet is felt in duty bound, followed the fortunes of his State, and left not the least of his estate in doing so.

Yet he made the sacrifice willingly and knowingly. From a knowledge of Judge Thomas' character, we are satisfied that no man at the South entertains less bitterness, than he towards the fanatics of the North, and the abstractionists of the South, to each of whom he was equally opposed, and is yet as much opposed as ever. He would endeavor to evoke at the present and in the future, a spirit of patriotism which looking only to the good of the country, will remember the past, not to exasperate the feelings of any, but to avoid its errors and follies.

With such a man as this in the gubernatorial chair, and the State governed by such feelings and motives as these, Virginia will soon be re-instated to her former position, and more than her former prosperity. We, therefore, place before the people Henry W. Thomas, for Governor, and we know none more worthy of association with him as Lieutenant-Governor and Attorney General, than Albert G. Pendleton, of Giles, and Raleigh T. Daniel, of Richmond City. It is proper to say that this communication is written without the knowledge of any of these gentlemen.

ALBEMARLE COUNTY, VA.

Permit a humble member of this tax-ridden community to offer a few remarks, suggested by reading the card of Mr. Charles E. Stuart, which appeared in yesterday's Gazette. With his views in regard to a reduction of our city expenses I most heartily concur, and think the people will sustain him. Let the salaries be so low that "the office shall seek the man." There are a few offices in the gift of the city requiring the entire time and attention of the occupant; let such be liberally paid; but there are many that will bear a great reduction, and to such let the pruning knife be applied, and that right speedily.

Mr. S.'s plan in reference to our debt, while somewhat similar in my humble judgment, is not as clear, comprehensive, or as well considered as that suggested by "A Citizen," in the Gazette of the 4th instant, and will be less likely to meet the approval of the creditor or debtor.

We have, it is true, lost everything, save our honor, which, thank God, yet remains untarnished, and let us pray that the blot of reputation may never stain our escutcheon. We do not acknowledge that we are entirely broken, but that our circumstance are "straightened," (considerably, undoubtedly,) and therefore if we can make an honorable adjustment with our creditors, it will be "a consummation most devoutly to be wished for;" if we cannot we must suffer; but as long as we can raise a dollar or own an inch of property, never let us break our faith or dishonor our poor but proud old town. Let us be open, frank and honest; call upon our creditors, make an exhibit of our financial affairs, show our assets, and ask them to suggest a compromise: convince them that by so doing they will grant us a "breathing spell," secure a more prompt payment of the interest upon the residue of the debt, and place our finances in such a channel that, in time, we may hope to be enabled to meet all demands upon us. For this let us all strive. Because the bonds of the Corporation or its stock are not in "first hands" there is none the less an obligation upon us to pay them. If a merchant holds the note of his fellow merchant, and because of embarrassment is compelled to "sell" it for half its face value before it is due, does it in any way relieve the drawer from his obligation to pay the full amount. Is the obligation of a corporation less sacred than that of an individual? I trust not. It is to save our fair name, sustain our credit, and at the same time relieve us from almost unbearable taxation, for permission to issue the necessary bonds, &c., and that our creditors (with a distinct sealing of the corporation debt, with a distinct understanding, however, that we will, when able, liquidate our entire obligation, so that no man shall lose a cent. This is not repudiation, and cannot be tortured into it. It is but an honest endeavor on the part of a disabled community to relieve itself, temporarily, to the end that it may finally emerge triumphantly from that it may finally emerge triumphantly from its embarrassment, with its name and fame unsullied.

The Lynchburg Virginian says:—"We regret to hear that the shuffling in the Legislature, over the compensation to be allowed the commissioners appointed at the last session, to stipulate with West Virginia her proper share of the entire State indebtedness, have resigned their commissions, and gone home. We are informed, upon what is deemed good authority, that this is positively true as to Messrs. Stuart and Janney." We have seen no notice of this in the Richmond papers—and hope the Virginian has been misinformed. We should be sorry to lose the services of the gentlemen named.

REMARKS.—We have no change to note in flour or wheat, the former of which is firm and steady; the latter weak and dull. Corn is in good demand, and more active, with fair receipts, and an advancing tendency. Plaster still advancing, with very little in the market. Butter is unchanged, but active. Eggs have further advanced. Lard declined. Dressed Hogs quiet at $8.50 a 9.

RICHMOND MARKET, February 12.—Since the river has been opened, and some outlet allowed to the large quantity of corn in this market, the price has slightly advanced, and at present may be quoted at from $5.00 to 5c per bushel. Prices higher than these have been frequently obtained in the last few days, but cannot be quoted as the status of the market. On yesterday 4,200 bushels of prime white new corn were sold to parties intending to ship it South for $1.03 per bushel. —Richmond Times.
